On September 28 -30, 2006, at San Francisco's renowned Bill Graham Civic Auditorium, West Coast Green is giving the residential green building market the event it's been wanting: a full scale 3-day conference and expo.

While new green events emerge every year, West Coast Green represents the largest milestone yet in the residential green building movement. Never before has a conference and expo provided access to such cutting-edge educational tracks, continuing education units, and rewarding opportunities for business development in the residential green building field. You'll find over 250 exhibitors showcasing the latest in resource-efficiency among a stunning array of green and healthy building products. Over 100 experts and visionary leaders will be presenting their latest developments, insights, and inspiration at the expanding frontiers of the field. West Coast Green is a feast of innovations, ideas and opportunities designed to expand your business, widen your vision, and stimulate your thinking with the latest, best practices and key players in green building.

We are not only setting records in scale and scope, we're also incorporating breakthroughs and innovations in conference design, content, and learning design. West Coast Green is proud to be the first tradeshow to offer a special day open to homeowners. On Homeowner Day (September 30), the public gets full access to the tradeshow with special presentations geared to their interests, and Robert F. Kennedy Jr. will be a keynote speaker. Consumers, the most powerful force in the market, will find all the information, products, and professionals they need to put their green building and remodeling plans into action.

As the leading venue for residential green building, West Coast Green will serve as a central gathering point for regional movements including those in Portland, Seattle, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Diego, Denver, Boulder, and Salt Lake City. Thousands of green professionals, businesses, and individuals will be coming together to network, display their resources, and grow strategic alliances.

At the heart of West Coast Green is a commitment to realigning ourselves with and enhancing the brilliant, common sense, vitalizing design principles of the natural world. Whether you're expanding your green business or your mind, determining regional construction standards, or just want a few remodeling tips, this conference is for you.
